PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Dear Chamber Members,

Ah, the smell of freshly mowed grass, leaves popping out on the trees, that yellow thing in the sky... makes a member's fancy turn to...golf of course. Have you signed up for the golf outing? It is certainly a great value for the price...golf, food, drink, prizes, fun with fellow Chamber and Rotary members, all for 80 bucks. What a deal. The outing is June 10th at Bob O Links Golf Course.

Our lunch speaker for the May lunch meeting is Mark Dodosh, Editor for Crain's Cleveland Business. Mark will bring us up to date on the Northeast Ohio economic forecast. We are all anxious to hear some good economic news and I hope he can paint a rosy recovery picture for us.

The April joint luncheon meeting with the North Olmsted Chamber and the Olmsted Chamber was held at the Polaris Career Center. The food prepared and served by the Polaris students was very good. The school is expanding in both the number of students enrolled and curriculum offered. It is a top notch resource for our community.

The June lunch meeting will be a joint meeting with North Olmsted and Olmsted at the Radisson in North Olmsted on June 18. This is the annual picnic and networking meeting, so everyone is expecting some networking to happen. The joint lunch meetings are a great opportunity to meet some potential new customers that we do not see at our regular lunch meetings. I hope you are able to make this meeting work for you.

If you are not able to attend a lunch meeting, try the joint business after hours at Smokey Bones on May 19th at 5:00pm. Free delicious appetizers and a cash bar should provide the proper atmosphere for partying and networking. I hope to see you there.

Will Kelly, President

Right Contact, Best Contact: It may seem hard to believe, but many companies don't have the appropriate information on their website to allow customers to easily contact them. Don't make customers search for you—instead, create a clear, concise contact page. Here's how.

- Create a contact page and call it "Contact Us" or "Contact (organization name)" and make sure the link is on every page of your website.
- Be sure the link title and the page title are the same. For example, if you call the link "Contact Us" on your homepage, the page you take visitors to should also be titled "Contact Us" so they will know they have reached the correct page.
- At a minimum, include the following pieces of information on your "Contact Us" or "Contact (organization name)" page:
 - Organization mailing address
 - Street addresses for any additional regional or local offices
 - Phone number(s), including numbers for any additional regional or local offices, toll-free numbers, fax numbers and TTY numbers, if available
 - Means to communicate by electronic mail (for example, email address(es) or web-based contact form)
 - Your organization's policy and procedures for responding to email inquiries, including whether you will answer inquiries and the expected response time
 - Contact information to report data problems

You also should consider listing the names, titles, phone numbers and emails (as a hot link) of any employees who assist with customer service, especially if you have multiple divisions of your company. For example, your page could say "For assistance with widget, contact (fill in appropriate information) and for assistance with gadgets, contact (fill in appropriate information), etc." This step will help the customer contact the most appropriate person to assist them and, hopefully, head off any potential frustrations.
